ABSTRACT

Seventeen tables are presented showing average expenses for resident students, commuting students, and self-supporting students attending over 2,400 postsecondary institutions for 1975-76. Some of the findings indicate: (1) The difference in total expenses for residents and commuter students is approximately $400. (2) Total expenses rose faster at public institutions than at private institutions from 1974-75 to 1975-76. (3) The overall increase in total expenses for resident students at all types of institutions from 1974-75 to 1975-76 is 8 percent. (4) The difference in the tuition and fees between private and public institutions is $1,351 for two-year institutions and $1,662 for four-year institutions. (5) Total expenses minus tuition and fees vary only slightly by institutional type and control. (MJM)

The College Scholarship Service (CSS) is an activity of the College Entrance Examination Board, concerned with improving equal educational opportunity. The CSS through the determination of financial need assists in the equitable distribution of financial assistance to students. Its services are offered to students and their parents, to secondary schools, to noncollegiate sponsors of financial aid programs, and to all institutions of postsecondary education. Operational activities for the College Scholarship Service are performed by Educational Testing Service.

The College Entrance Examination Board is a nonprofit membership organization that provides tests and other educational services for students, schools, and colleges. The membership is composed of more than 2,000 colleges, schools, school systems, and education associations.

Summary of Contents

Analysis of information on the costs of attending different types of postsecondary institutions. There are 17 tables showing average expenses for resident students, commuting students, and self-supporting students. In addition, there are data showing how postsecondary educational expenses are increasing and how expenses vary by College Board region.

Some of the findings

- The difference in total expenses for residents and commuter students is approximately $400.

- Total expenses rose faster at public institutions than at private institutions from 1974-75 to 1975-76.

- The overall increase in total expenses for resident students at all types of institutions from 1974-75 to 1975-76 is 8 percent.

- The difference in the tuition and fees between private and public institutions is $1,351 for the two-year institution and $1,662 for the four-year institution.

- Total expenses minus tuition and fees vary only slightly by institutional type and control.

A listing of student expenses at over 2,400 postsecondary institutions across the United States as reported by the institutions.

The growing need for information on expenses at postsecondary institutions. While the most important considerations in choosing a postsecondary institution are educational, a growing number of American families are concerned about educational costs. Not only the lower-income family, but also middle-income and upper-income families are finding it increasingly difficult to meet the costs of a college education. To cope with the problem of financing a college education, parents and students need to plan ahead. To do this effectively, information is needed about the kinds of financial support available and the cost of postsecondary education.

A good deal of information is available about the kinds of student financial aid provided by federal and state governments, private agencies, and institutions of postsecondary education. But all too often, there is too little information available and too little consideration given to the other half of the problem--the costs of the kind of educational program the student will pursue.

To assist students who may lack the necessary financial resources to cover educational costs, there is help in the form of student financial aid. Much of the available financial aid is awarded on the basis of need. In order for postsecondary institutions to fairly assess the financial need of students, the institution must consider two major factors: (1) how much the family can afford to pay toward the cost of education beyond high school and (2) the expenses associated with attending a postsecondary institution. In this book, the focus is on the construction of a reasonable student expense budget. Meeting College Costs, another booklet prepared by the College Scholarship Service, provides a step-by-step outline parents and students can use to determine how much they can afford to spend for educational costs and also assists in figuring their financial need.

Using this book. It should be remembered that the cost estimates listed here were provided by the postsecondary institutions themselves and are the figures typically used in determining a student's financial need. Therefore these budgets represent average costs, and any individual student at an institution may have expenses that vary from these. But these expense figures can be useful, particularly in helping students, parents, and school counselors in making plans about financing postsecondary education and in making preliminary estimates of financial need using the procedures given in Meeting College Costs.

The data provided in this book were collected by the College Scholarship Service (CSS), an activity of the College Entrance Examination Board, that assists postsecondary institutions, states, and federal agencies in determining how much financial need a particular student has at a particular institution. The CSS itself does not grant any financial assistance, but only helps parents and students to present their financial situation and assists institutions in determining the student's financial need.

WHAT IS AN EXPENSE BUDGET?

A student expense budget is meant to be all-inclusive in order to provide for both direct educational and living expenses. The expense budget for the typical student at a postsecondary institution is made up of five principal parts: tuition and fees, books and supplies, room and board, personal expenses, and transportation. In determining an individual student's financial need, the institution will begin with these items and then consider other expenses that may be necessary such as medical care, debt repayment, etc. But the basic five items are generally included in the budgets used for all students.

Tuition and Fees. Tuition is the institution's charge for instruction. Fees may be charged for such services as the library, the health center, the student center, and so on. While the actual instructional costs vary from one institution to another according to the curriculum, academic level, and type of educational program offered, the tuition and fees charged students are more closely related to the kind of institution they are attending. As a general rule, tuition and fees at public institutions are the lowest, particularly for students who are legal residents of the state or district in which the institution is located. Public institutions, both two-year and four-year, typically have an additional tuition charge for students who are not legal residents of the state or district. This "out-of-state" or "out-of-district" tuition may make the cost of attending a public institution as high or higher than that of a private institution.

Public and private institutions generally set their tuition charge below the real costs of providing the educational instruction. Tuition charges at private institutions usually cover a larger percentage of the real costs so they are likely to be considerably higher than those of public institutions. Proprietary schools normally set their prices to cover all their own costs.

The following table shows the estimated average tuition and fees for public two- and four-year institutions, private two- and four-year institutions, and proprietary institutions, for the 1975-76 academic year.

Table 1. Tuition and Fees: 1975-76 Mean Costs for Nine Months

Type of Institution	Mean
Public 2-Year	$ 301
Private 2-Year	1,652
Public 4-Year	578
Private 4-Year	2,240
Proprietary	1,627
All Institutions	1,467

The amounts shown here for the public institutions are the average amounts charged to students who are legal residents of the state or district in which the institution is located. At some of the reporting public two-year institutions, there was no tuition charge to students who were legal residents. If only institutions that charge tuition and fees are considered, the average charge is $416.

Books and Supplies. Every college student has to buy his own books, pencils, paper, and other supplies used in his or her studies. The amount a student spends for books and supplies will vary only slightly by type of institution. However, the amount an individual spends will generally relate to the selected curriculum or types of classes the student takes. Typically, art and engineering students must purchase relatively expensive supplies. For example, a course in engineering may require a student to purchase a slide-rule or a small desk-calculator. Most institutions have a campus bookstore where students can purchase the books and supplies they need, including those that have been "used" by other students who have completed the course earlier. The institutions in this survey indicate that the costs of books and supplies for full-time students attending classes for nine months during 1975-76 are approximately $175.

Table 2. Books and Supplies: 1975-76 Mean Expenses for Nine Months

Type of Institution	Resident	Commuter
Public 2-Year	$161	$164
Private 2-Year	172	181
Public 4-Year	173	172
Private 4-Year	179	180
Proprietary	160	180
All Institutions	173	175

Room and Board. In constructing a student expense budget most institutions will include living costs. For "resident" students who do not live at home with their parents (not to be confused with legal in-state residents used in the discussion of tuition and fees) this generally means the cost of room rent and food. Institutions having on-campus housing have reported the rate charge to students who live in the college dormitory. This rate includes rental of a room and most meals for nine months except for holidays and vacation periods. Students who do not live at home or in a college dormitory but find a place of their own must pay their own rent and buy their own food. These costs depend on where the housing is located and whether the accommodations are shared, but in general, off-campus housing costs about the same as living in a college dormitory.

"Commuting" students, those who live at home with their parents, generally do not have to spend as much for living costs as resident students (but families should remember that they will still need to buy food for the student) and the commuting student will still need money for meals on the campus. Classes may start early in the morning and go on until late at night. Students who live at home may have to buy at least one meal a day on campus, and usually will spend additional amounts on snacks bought in the student center or restaurants around the campus.

The following table shows the amounts institutions estimate their resident and commuter students should plan to spend for room and board for the normal nine-month academic year in 1975-76.

Table 3 Room and Board: 1975-76 Mean Expenses for Nine Months

Type of Institution	Resident	Commuter
Public 2-Year	$1,213	$791
Private 2-Year	1,239	850
Public 4-Year	1,272	716
Private 4-Year	1,302	778
Proprietary	1,363	863
All Institutions	1,276	773

In general, the room and board costs do not vary greatly for the different types of institutions. Costs at the proprietary institutions are the highest, largely because these institutions typically do not provide subsidized resident facilities of their own and students must find their own housing in the communities. By type of student, the study shows a difference of approximately $500 in room and board expenses for resident students versus the commuting student.

Personal or Other Expenses. Sometimes called "miscellaneous," personal or other expenses include items such as clothing, laundry, toothpaste and soap, recreation, medical insurance, and incidental furnishings for dormitory rooms. Many students think they can economize in this area, but as the following table shows, the institutions uniformly estimate that students will spend slightly more than $400 for these items. The data show that the average costs of personal expenses vary slightly from one institution to another, generally less than $50.

Table 4 Personal and Other Expenses: 1975-76 Means for Nine Months

Type of Institution	Resident	Commuter
Public 2-Year	$425	$424

Transportation. Almost all students must spend some money for travel. Those who stay on or near the campus must travel to get there at the start of the year and return home at the end of the year. Most resident students also go home at least once or twice during the year. Students who live at home and commute to the campus have to pay almost daily transportation costs. This may be public transportation or by private car. At some institutions, particularly those located in large cities, the costs of daily parking can be substantial. As the following table shows, all types of institutions estimate a larger amount for the average transportation expenses of commuter students than for residents. This additional amount is approximately $100.

Table 5 Transportation: 1975-76 Mean Expenses for Nine Months

Type of Institution	Resident	Commuter
Public 2-Year	$311	$378
Private 2-Year	222	337

PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER

In making a total expense budget, the five components discussed here are added together. The following table shows the average total expenses for both resident and commuter students estimated by the postsecondary institutions for the 1975-76 academic year.

Table 6 Total Expenses: 1975-76 Means for Nine Months

Type of Institution	Resident	Commuter
Public 2-Year	$2,411	$2,058
Private 2-Year	3,690	3,421
Public 4-Year	2,679	2,266
Private 4-Year	4,391	3,950
Proprietary	3,822	3,382
All Institutions	3,594	3,186

The lowest student budgets are found at public institutions, where commuting students spend an average of $2,000 to $2,300 for the year and resident students between $300 and $400 more. The major reason private and proprietary institutions have larger total expenses than public institutions is because of tuition and fees. This point is illustrated in Table 7. When all expenses except tuition and fees are considered, the variation in the costs of attendance at different types of institutions is slight. So that regardless of the type of institution a student attends, the costs of items other than tuition are not likely to vary by more than $100.

Table 7. Total Expenses Minus Tuition and Fees: 1975-76 Means for Nine Months

Type of Institution	Resident	Commuter
Public 2-Year	$2,110	$1,757
Private 2-Year	2,038	1,769
Public 4-Year	2,701	1,688
Private 4-Year	2,151	1,710
Proprietary	2,1[illegible]	1,755
All Institutions	2,127	1,719

Tables 8 and 9 show the average budgets for both resident and commuter students at the five different types of institutions. At public institutions the largest part of the budget is room and board. At private institutions, tuition and fees account for the highest proportion of costs. For resident students at the public four-year institutions, tuition and fees make up about 21.6 percent of their total expenditure; books and supplies, 6.5 percent; room and board, 47.5 percent; transportation, 7.5 percent; and personal miscellaneous expenses, an additional 17 percent. At the other end of the cost spectrum, students who are campus residents at private four-year institutions spend 51 percent of their money on tuition and fees (the same proprotion as in 1974-75); books and supplies, 4.1 percent; room and board, 29.7 percent; personal miscellaneous expenses, 10 percent; and on transportation, only 5.3 percent.

COSTS ARE CHANGING

The cost of a postsecondary education, like everything else, is going up. The average budget for commuter students in public two-year colleges has increased $136 (7 percent) over the past year; at the public four-year institutions, the average resident budget has increased $279 (12 percent) over the past year. This represents a decrease in the rate of increase in the budget for the commuting student at two-year public institutions over the 1973-75 to 1974-75 figures, and an increase in the rate for attendance at four-year public institutions for the same period. Over the past six years, the average resident budget at the four-year public institutions has increased $896 (50 percent).

Table 8. Budgets for 1975-76 for Resident Students by Institutional Type and Control

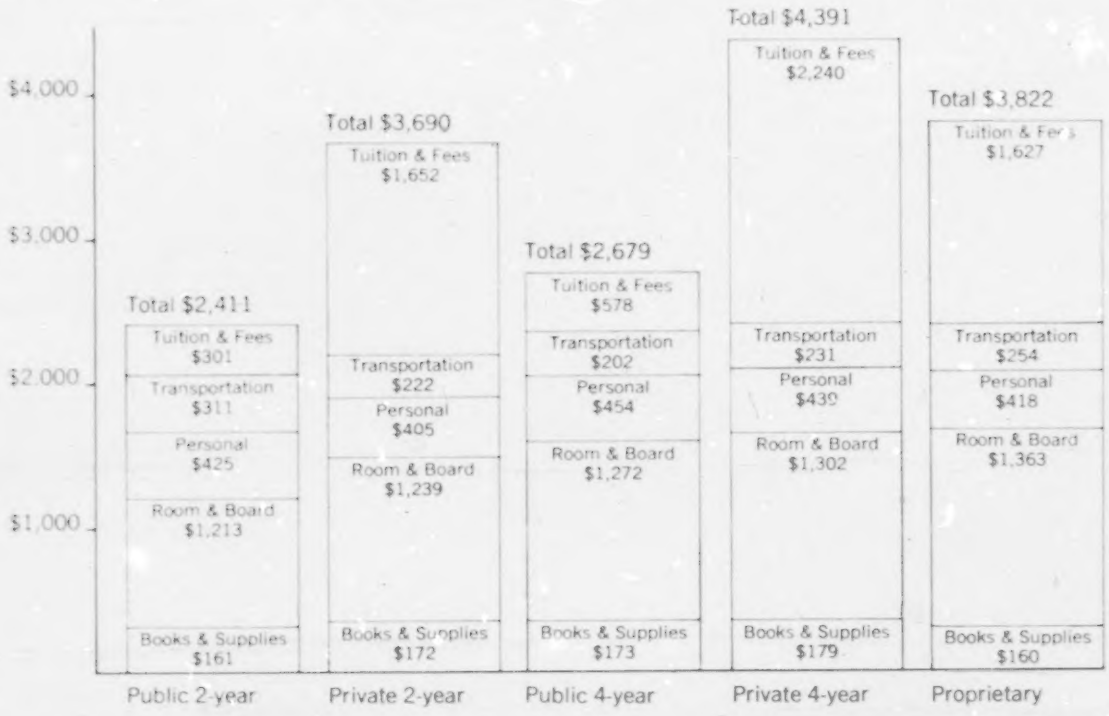

Table 9. Budgets for 1975-76 for Commuting Students by Institutional Type and Control

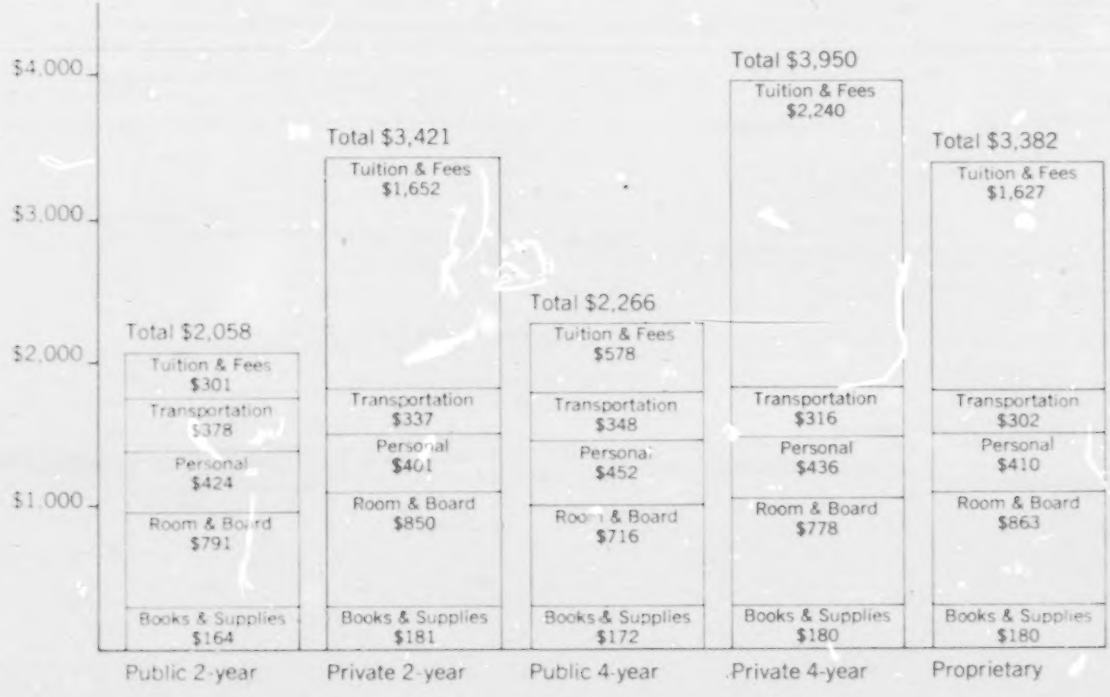

The largest increase from 1974-75 to 1975-76 is estimated for resident students at the public institutions, where costs will increase an estimated 12 percent. Costs for resident students at the private two-year institutions will increase only 2 percent over 1974-75, but shows an increase of $1,310 (55 percent) over the past six years. Private four-year institutions anticipate an increase of $357 (the largest in absolute terms) for their resident students. This increase of 9 percent from 1974-75 to 1975-76 is just slightly less than the 9.4 percent rate of increase for 1973-74 to 1974-75. The average increase for all types of institutions is 8 percent when resident students are considered; the weighted average increase for the one-year period for commuting students is 6 percent.

Increases in Tuition and Fees. Overall increases from 1974-75 to 1975-76 are less than for the previous year's period. Both the dollar amounts and the largest percentage increases in tuition occurred at the private four-year institutions. Tuition for public and private two-year institutions will increase 5 percent next year. The increase since 1970-71 will be 79 percent at the public institutions and 44 percent at the private. Tuition and fees at the four-year public and private institutions will increase 7 and 8 percent respectively. Viewed over the six-year period, the increases at the public four-year institutions have amounted to 46 percent ($183) and at the private four-year institutions 48 percent ($723). It should be noted that the number of proprietary schools in this study is small, particularly in 1974-75 and, therefore, the reader will want to exercise caution in drawing any conclusions from these data.

The expenses of self-supporting students. So far the discussion has concerned the expenses of students who either live at home or live on or near the campus and who are dependent on their parents. Students who are not living at home, are not claimed by their parents for tax purposes, and who do not receive more than $600 in financial support are generally called self-supporting. These students must typically provide for their own maintenance or living costs for a 12-month period. Therefore, the living expenses of self-supporting students are usually higher than for dependent students whose budgets are figured in most cases for nine months.

Because self-supporting students have the responsibility for maintaining their own residence and frequently have dependents of their own, these

Table 13. 12-Month Self-Supporting Student Budgets: 1975-76 Means

Type of Institution	Tuition and Fees	Books and Supplies	Room and Board	Personal Expenses	Transportation	Total
Public 2-Year	$ 301	$190	$1,889	$593	$458	$3,431

students are more likely to have higher personal expenses than dependent students. They may also have such extra expenses as child care and outstanding debts that are not typical of the dependent student. Based on the data in this survey, the expenses of self-supporting students are larger than comparable expenses for dependent students for each of the four categories, excluding tuition and fees. The same tuition and fee charges were used for dependent and self-supporting students because it was assumed that all students were attending classes for nine months.

As in the case of dependent students, the costs for those items other than tuition and fees are very similar regardless of the type of institution. The mean difference for these costs in 1974-75 was $253, with the lowest expenses reported by the private two-year institution and the highest by the public four-year institution.

Table 14. Total Expenses for 12 Months Minus Tuition and Fees for Self-Supporting Students for 1974-75 and 1975-76

The increase in costs of self-supporting students follows the pattern for dependent students, and is approximately 9 percent when all expenses except tuition and fees are considered. In absolute terms, the average dollar increase for these expenses was $248 when all types of institutions were combined.

Expenses by College Board Region. The College Board is divided into six regions. The states composing each of the regions can be seen by looking at the map on the back inside cover of this book. There is a difference of approximately $340 in the tuition and fee charge for public institutions among the six regions. The highest charges are reported in the Middle States region; the lowest in the Southwest. Among the various regions the difference in tuition and fees for private institutions is about $715.

Table 16 Tuition and Fees for 1975-76 by Institutional Control by College Board Region

College Board Region	Mean Tuition and Fees Public Institutions	Mean Tuition and Fees Private Institutions
New England	$481	$2,542
Middle States	631	2,432
South	336	1,899
Midwest	501	2 075
Southwest	289	1,829
West	315	2,111

Costs other than tuition and fees for the different regions do vary some. The average difference is about $400 for resident students, $300 for commuter students, and $400 for self-supporting students. In the case of all three types of students the lowest costs are to be found in the South. For the nine-month resident student these expenses are likely to be highest in New England. Institutions in the Southwest report the highest costs for the commuting and self-supporting student.

EXPENSES AT SPECIFIC INSTITUTIONS

It should be noted that these costs figures are both estimated and average. As averages, the estimates included here may not be appropriate for the particular circumstances of any individual student. The professional financial aid administrator at each institution must review individually the needs of each student who applies for assistance and must develop a specific budget to represent that student's real costs for the year. Such individual budgets may differ from the averages presented in this publication.

But the budgets in this book can be used for planning purposes. Students who will need financial assistance to meet college costs must plan ahead. One important step is to apply for financial aid early. As part of the financial aid application process many institutions ask students to file a Parents' Confidential Statement (PCS). The PCS is used by institutions in determining the need students have for financial assistance. The PCS is designed to collect information about a family's financial circumstances. Parents complete this form and send it to the College Scholarship Service, where it is analyzed and a report prepared for every institution and scholarship sponsor named by the parent. Copies of the PCS are available from guidance counselors in high schools and at community agencies. Following the budget information for most institutions shown in this book is the date by which the institution suggests that the parents send the PCS to the College Scholarship Service for analysis. The date provided in this publication is intended to assure adequate time for processing by the CSS, and for institutional review and award decisions to be made. It should not be interpreted as a deadline date, for many postsecondary institutions may review PCS forms filed with the CSS after this date. The date may also differ from the deadlines for financial aid applications, which are published by most institutions in their catalog or financial aid publications. In addition, a large number of institutions use the Student's Financial Statement (SFS), another need analysis document of the CSS that assists in figuring the need of dependent or self-supporting students. The SFS is distributed directly by the institutions that use it. Specific information about the application deadlines of individual institutions can be obtained from the financial aid administrator.

Meeting College Costs. The responsibility for meeting postsecondary educational costs is shared by the student, his parents, the institutions, private donors and agencies, and the various levels of government. This pattern of financing reflects the philosophy that education benefits both the individual and the society. The College Scholarship Service assists institutions and other sources of financial assistance in estimating how much a student and his parents can contribute toward college expenses. This publication is intended to assist in estimating what these expenses will be. Using the student expense budgets and the procedures for determining an estimated family contribution toward postsecondary costs found in the CSS booklet Meeting College Costs, a student can get a rough idea of his or her financial need. Students who are knowledgeable about postsecondary educational costs, the availability of financial aid, and the steps for applying for these funds, should have the best chance of attending the institution of their choice.

How the data were collected

The data were collected from institutions by the CSS on a form entitled "Institutional Estimate of Student Expenses for Academic Year 1975-76." Institutions returning this form by January 15, 1975, were included in the publication. Those institutions submitting this form for the 1974-75 academic year are noted with an asterisk (*). Data are not listed for institutions that have not updated their "Institutional Estimate of Student Expenses" for the last two years.

Definition of terms

In an effort to collect comparable budget information for guidance purposes, the budget categories were specifically defined.

Resident budget--the nine-month expenses of dependent students living away from their parents, either in facilities operated by the institution or in private housing.

Commuter budget--the nine-month expenses of dependent students who live at home with their parents.

Self-supporting budget--the 12-month expenses of single, self-supporting students.

Information was requested only when it applied to students who attend the institution. For example, if an institution has only commuter students, the resident column should be blank. When an institution has a range of expenses for any one category, for example, transportation expenses for commuter students, the average expense was requested.

Tuition and Fees. Tuition and general fees charged to all first-year students. Out-of-state tuition represents only the additional charge made to students who do not meet state (or district) residence requirements.

Books and Supplies. The average cost of books and supplies for a first-year student.

Room and Board. For the resident budget, the room and board charges for a student living in facilities operated by the institution or, if there is no student housing, the average cost of room and board for students maintaining a residence away from their parents.

For the commuter budget, the cost of a student's food and other at-home miscellaneous expenses, excluding the estimated cost of a room.

In the self-supporting budget, the average room-and-board expenses for a single, self-supporting student for a 12-month period.

Personal Expenses. The average expenditures for personal or "miscellaneous" expenses such as clothing, laundry, entertainment, incidental meals, medical insurance, and furnishings as applicable.

Transportation. For the resident budget, this figure would normally be the cost of two round trips from the student's home; for the commuter or self-supporting budget, this figure reflects the total costs of transportation to and from the institution during the nine- or 12-month period.
